New Zealand Group Stops in Honolulu

Sunday, June 13, was a memorable day for the Diocese. Fifteen young Maoris from Wellington, New Zealand, made their first stop on a world tour in Honolulu. They were met at the airport by the Reverend Guy Piltz, in charge of youth work for the Diocese and Mr. Richard Laulau Supper at Holy Nativity Youth Center, given in honor of the Maori group from New Zealand.

The Maori group from Wellington as they paused in Honolulu.

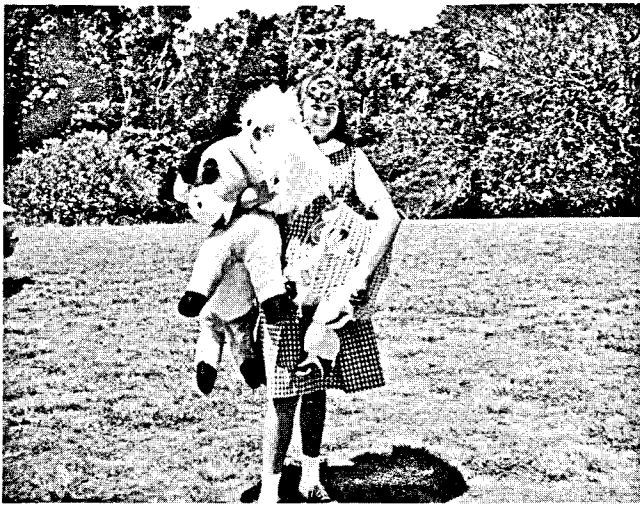

Chang, a Candidate for Holy Orders from this Diocese, who is attending The Church Divinity Church of the Pacific, and Mr. Henry Budd, our Diocesan Treasurer. Iolani School graciously provided two buses for their transportation.

They attended the eleven o'clock service at St. Andrew's Cathedral, where their leader, the Reverend Kingi Ihaka, preached. Following the service they sang to the congregation outside the Cathedral. Lunch was served to them at the Diocesan House, where they were joined by Maori friends. The Rev. Mr. Ihaka was recently in Hollywood as technical director of a motion picture concerning the life of the Maori people.

Following lunch they were taken on a tour of the island, visiting Sea Life Park, and returning to the Bishop's home for a dip in the ocean before going to Holy Nativity Church for a delicious laulau supper. The Youth Center was filled to capacity for the supper, which was under the direction of Mr. Kenneth Lee, and for the entertainment they gave following the supper. It was a delightful occasion for everyone—and a rare treat to have such a fine group with us. They left the next morning for Vancouver.

Our special thanks go to Holy Nativity Church members for their cooperation and fine preparation for this evening.

Their purpose in touring the world is to bring a better understanding between the Anglican Church of Wellington and other churches where they plan to visit. Their enthusiasm and charm cannot help but win friends wherever they go.

More MRI For Hawaii

The missions on the Island of Hawaii are supporting a Korean student at St. Michael's Theological Seminary in Seoul, Korea. St. Luke's Korean Mission, Honolulu, is paying $60 per month for the salary of a Korean priest. Good Samaritan Parish, Wailuku, Maui, is supporting in full a Philippine Independent Church priest—the Reverend Justo Andres—to do work on the Island of Maui with the Ilocano people.

Honolulu has chosen to accept Okinawa as our field of endeavor for MRI. Archdeacon Charles Crane, of Kauai, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brodhead, of Honolulu, spent a week in Okinawa visiting all of our missions and Church centers. They are making a tour of our islands in Hawaii, presenting the needs of Okinawa to our congregations.

The Diocese is accepting the support of the Philippine Independent Church missions in Hawaii, throughout all of our islands. Our Independent Church priests are ministering to approximately ten chapels in our church buildings where possible, but also in schools and plantation buildings. We hope to help them acquire land and to erect modest church buildings where they can have services. We will also furnish them with the necessary church furnishings.

St. Peter's Church, Honolulu, has granted permission for the Samoan Church to use the church building for their worship services on Sunday afternoons at 2 p.m. This group is made up of new arrivals from Samoa and conduct their services in the Samoan language. They were converted to the Christian faith by missionaries of the London Missionary Society out of Tonga and have formed their own congregation after their arrival in Hawaii.

Closing exercises at Seabury Hall, Makawao, Maui. Its first year brought to a successful conclusion.

Diocesan Stewardship Workshops

The Diocesan Department of Stewardship has made arrangements for Mr. Huntington Hanchett of the Executive Council's Department of Promotion to conduct two Stewardship Workshops, one in Honolulu and the other at Seabury Hall, Makawao, Maui during the month of July.

These will be hard-hitting, down to earth meetings with practical and thorough training covering all sizes and types of parishes and missions. We are grateful that Mr. Hanchett has consented to lend his time to help the Church in Hawaii.

Seabury Hall honor students on Headmaster's list.

The Right Reverend Alan Francis Bright Rogers and his wife, from Phoenix, Mauritius, islands off the coast of Madagascar, in the Indian Ocean. They were the guests of Bishop and Mrs. Kennedy for a few days before going on to Sydney, Australia and back to Mauritius via Europe.

SOS—Build Our Blood Bank

The Episcopal Blood Bank is at a very low ebb—due to the fact that we have had some very ill patients who have demanded the help of this reserve.

St. Christopher's Church has been the real spark plug in providing blood for our bank, but they cannot fill the demand now placed upon it.

We would urge all of our people to respond to this call and make an appointment with the Blood Bank NOW.

A very wonderful plan is to insure you and your family by giving blood to the bank. Taking one pint in this way, the next pint will go to the Episcopal Blood Bank and give much needed assistance to those who require our help.

The Bank was started several years ago by the Laymen's Group. It is one of the very fine projects of the group and should continue to do the good work for which it was intended.

Leave on Furlough

The Reverend B. Jean Clark, Rector of Holy Nativity Church, and his family left on furlough the first of the month. The Rev. Roger M. Melrose, Headmaster of Seabury Hall, sailed for Vancouver with his family the middle of June. Mr. Melrose attended a meeting of the heads of private schools in Forest Grove, Oregon, while on the Mainland. The Venerable Charles T. Crane, Archdeacon of Kauai and Rector of All Saints' Church, Kapaa, sailed on the same ship with his family.

Holy Nativity Church Suffers Fire Loss

A very unfortunate fire occurred at Holy Nativity Church, Aina Haina on Sunday, May 30, following the morning services. It burned the sacristy completely, as well as the organ. There was considerable damage to the walls and ceiling of the church and completely destroyed the new stained glass window. Fortunately all was covered by insurance. The estimated loss was $100,000.

The cause of the fire is not known, but because of many cases of vandalism in this area, it is supposed that the fire was deliberately started in a closet where vestments were hung.

The services are being held in the Youth Center until repairs have been completed.

Clergy Exchanges and Visitors

The Very Reverend Sturgis L. Riddle, D.D., Dean of the American Cathedral in Paris, France, will be exchange preacher with the Very Reverend John J. Morrett, of St. Andrew's Cathedral during the month of July.

The Reverend Stuart G. Fitch of St. Luke's Church, Monrovia, California, is exchanging with the Reverend Morimasa Kanishiro of St. Mary's Church, Honolulu, during June, July and August.

The Rev. Victor Maddick and his wife will spend three days in the Hostel during July. He is the Director of Religious Education in the State Schools of Melbourne, Australia, and planned to tour England and America in study.

The Reverend Charles S. Neville of Good Samaritan Church, Corvallis, Oregon, exchanged pulpits with the Reverend B. Jean Clark, Rector of Holy Nativity Church, Honolulu.

Why Fear the Truth?

Fear is lack of faith. Lack of faith is ignorance. Fear can only be cured by vision.

Give the world eyes. It will see. Give it ears. It will hear. Give it a right arm. It will act.

Man needs time and room. Man needs soil, sunshine and rain. Needs a chance.

Open all your doors and windows. Let everything pass freely in and out, out and in.

Even the evil. Let it pass out and in, in and out.

No man hates the truth. But most men are afraid of the truth.

Make the truth easier than a lie. Make the truth welcomer than its counterfeits.

Then men will no longer be afraid.

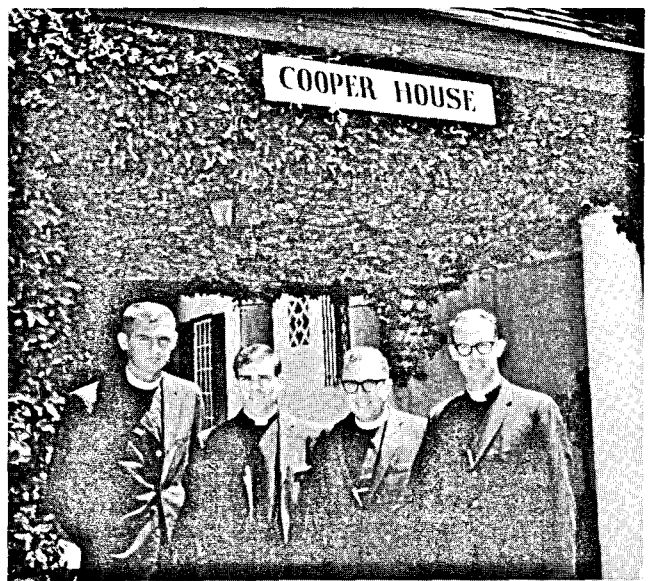

Being afraid is being ignorant. Being ignorant is being without faith. —Mrs. Raymond (Wilma) Hoefener

Devout Layman Elected President Of Hawaii Loa College

Dr. Chandler W. Rowe, Dean of Academic Affairs of Lawrence University, was elected President of the new Hawaii Loa College, a four-year liberal arts college which is an ecumenical venture of the Methodist, United Church of Christ, Presbyterian and Episcopal Churches, to be opened next year on 100 acres of prime real estate below the Pali lookout on Windward Oahu. Land valued at $5,500,000 for the college was donated by Harold K. L. Castle, Kaneohe Ranch Company president. This college will serve a great need not only in Hawaii but in the entire Pacific.

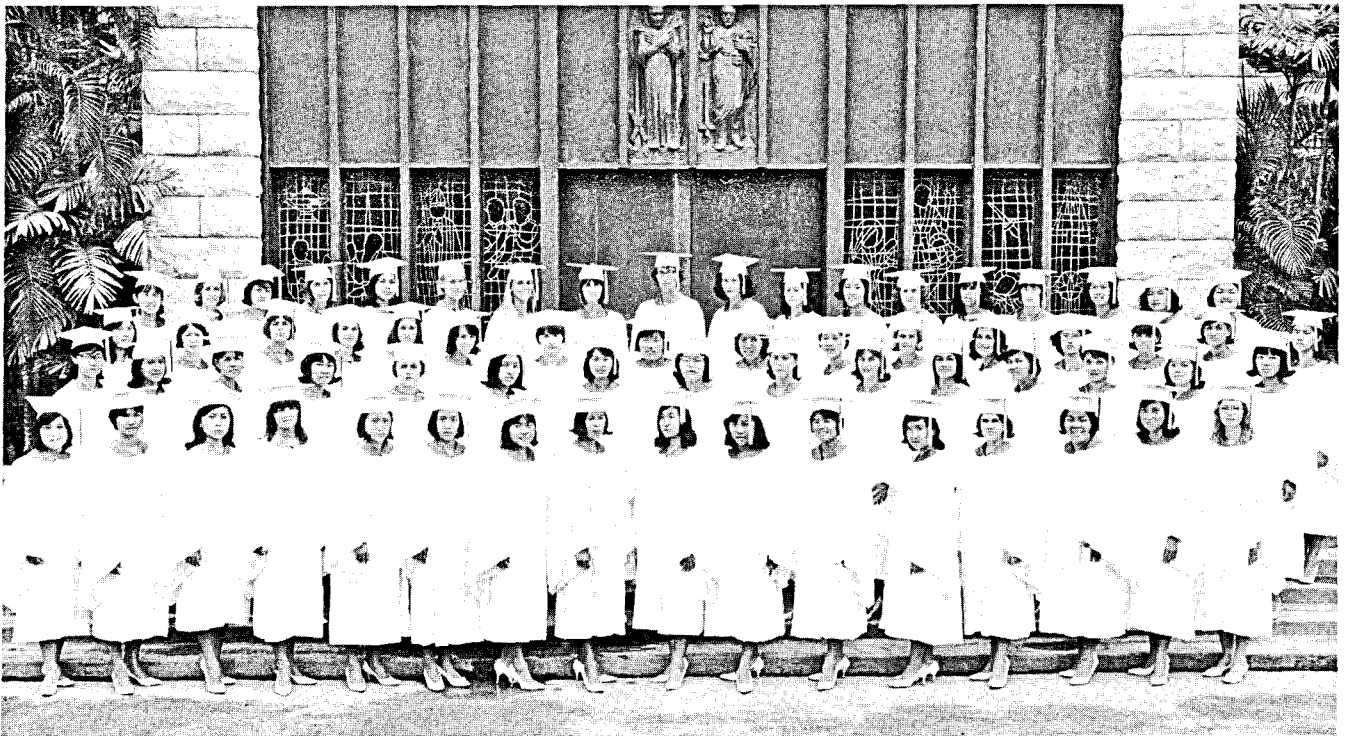

Dr. Rowe received his B.A. degree from Beloit College in 1939, his M.A. in the Department of Anthropology from Chicago University in 1947, and his Ph.D. from the same university in 1951. During World War II he served in the U.S. Army Engineers Corps in the Pacific Theater.

He is married and has a son and two daughters. He comes to Hawaii with an enviable reputation. He is a devout layman of the Episcopal Church.

OUR ISLAND OF MAUI CLERGY

The Reverend Charles H. Smith, Vicar of Holy Innocents Church, Lahaina, The Venerable William H. Aulenbach, Jr., Archdeacon of Maui and Rector of Good Shepherd Parish, Wailuku, the Reverend Iver J. Torgerson, Jr., Vicar of St. John's Church, Kula.

New Postulants to Enter Seminary

September will find three new Postulants from Hawaii entering the Church Divinity School of the Pacific: Rudolph Duncan, Winston Ching and Franklin Chun.

Mr. Duncan has been a devout layman and lay reader of our Church for many years, having served on Kauai, Maui and now at St. John's-by-the-Sea, Kahaluu, Oahu and St. Peter's Church, Honolulu. He has been with American Factors, Ltd., for many years, but his devotion to our Lord has made him make the decision to sacrifice much in order to serve Him better. He will leave with his wife and children the latter part of July to establish himself at the Seminary.

Winston Ching, a faithful member of St. Peter's Church, has long been a leader of the Episcopal Young Churchmen, having been president at the time Bishop Lichtenberger was our guest at Convocation. He has just graduated from the University of Hawaii.

Franklin Chun, another of our fine young leaders in the youth work in his own parish, St. Elizabeth's Church, Honolulu, and at Canterbury House, also graduated from the University of Hawaii.

We take pride in sending these three men to seminary, knowing that they will enrich the ministry of our Church.

Kwajalein

The Reverend John Engelcke, Chaplain for Canterbury House at the University of Hawaii, spent May 26-29 on Kwajalein, organizing a new mission, the Church of the Ascension, which is the Episcopal Church in the Marshall Islands under the Diocese of Honolulu.

Mr. Herbert C. Cosgrove has been the leader of this mission, and has a high place in the executive hierarchy of Bell Telephone Laboratories. His wife, Selma, has given him able assistance. Mr. Cosgrove was elected Senior Warden of the Bishop's Committee, Mr. Karl F. Koehler, Junior Warden, Mr. Lowell T. Yoon, treasurer and Mrs. William Hoyt, clerk.

There were 64 at the communion service held for our people. The lay readers conduct services each Sunday.

The church was so named because it was organized on Ascension Day. It seems quite fitting because Kwajalein is where the work is the launching and study of missiles.

The Reverend Mr. Engelcke commended greatly the Protestant Senior Choir of 25 members for learning the Episcopal service and their participation in it, as well as that of the organist, Mr. Stanley Sholar.

The Reverend Mr. Engelcke will make quarterly visits to this congregation to take them the sacraments of our Church.

Please Remember

Please remember that there is no Chronicle in July and August. So many people have the impression that they are missing the summer issues—so we make this explanation. We will be back in September.

Families and friends gather to congratulate the graduates of the Class of 1965, Hawaii Preparatory Academy, Kamuela, Hawaii.

Graduation Exercises

Iolani School for boys had a graduating class of 102, St. Andrew's Priory School for girls had a class of 67 and the Hawaii Preparatory Academy a class of 47. Receiving the Bishop's Award for Christian Education and Christian Service were: Thomas Nagata, from Iolani; Sandra Matsuyo Kamioka, St. Andrew's Priory and Stephen Earl Spangler Smith, the Academy.

Iolani School and the Academy were honored by having the Cum Laude Society installed by Mr. Ronald Beasley, M.A. (Campad) LL.D., Regent of District VI, Cum Laude Society. Twenty-one members of the faculty of Iolani were installed, as were twenty-one students. There were thirteen installed at the Academy.

Working With St. Clement's Church

Emmanuel Church, Enchanted Lake, where the Vicar is the Reverend Delbert Westling, has joined with St. Clement's Church in a mutual relationship. The Reverend Paul M. Wheeler, D.D., Rector of St. Clement's Church, is directing the activities of both churches. This is the third team of churches and clergy in Honolulu.

Camp Schedules for the Islands of Oahu and Maui

Session I	July 4-16	Grades 3-6	Cost $35
Session II	July 18-30	Grades 3-6	Cost $35
Session III	August 1-13	Grades 7-9	Cost $37

This schedule is for both Camp Mokuleia on Oahu and for Camp Pecusa on Maui. All of the sessions on Oahu are filling up rapidly, so if you are planning to send your child to camp you should get your application in now.

The camping program on Maui promises to be an interesting one that is well worth considering for your child. They plan to use Camp Pecusa as a base camp for a program on mountain camping. In each session there are to be two camping trips. The first will be an overnight trip to Polipoli Springs, and the second a trip into the crater of Haleakala. This is a real opportunity for the children to learn camping skills and put them to use. Applications may be obtained for either program from your clergy.

Annual Clergy Picnic

The Annual Clergy Picnic was held at Bellow's Field on June 23 from 2-6 p.m. This is always a happy time for the Diocesan Family to get together so that they may know each other and play and eat together. Mrs. Stanley Adams, Mrs. Fred Minuth and Mrs. Guy Piltz were in charge of arrangements.

Wild Cattle Taken From Forest Reserve

The days of hunting "ahii pipi" (wild cattle) are not over yet! Fifty years ago hunting wild cattle was almost a daily occupation. Today, it is somewhat of a novelty, although the forests throughout the island of Hawaii still support many wild cattle.

Kuakini Lindsey, retired Parker Ranch paniolo, and a descendant of the famous Lindsey family whose men and women alike knew no fear of horse or bullock, spends most of his time in retirement riding his fine cow pony, "Sparkling," working cattle on his daughter's (Mrs. Harry Fergestrom) Hawaiian Homes ranch or caring for a herd of cattle on a 300-acre ranch in the Kamoku area which borders the Hamakua Forest Reserve. The Hamakua Forest Reserve is a thick, dense forest—a perfect paradise for wildlife to exist in peace and contentment.

It was on one of his routine inspections of the paddocks in the Kamoku area that Kuakini noticed a considerable herd of cattle in the Hamakua Forest Reserve, a large number of which were matured animals bearing no brands of any kind.

Kuakini studied the behavior of the herd for two weeks. Each morning at about seven o'clock the herd emerged from the lower forest of Kamoku and grazed in the open pastures. At about ten o'clock the herd went back into the forest and disappeared from sight. Each day's vigil goaded this old time paniolo more and more into making up his mind that there was to be no rest for him until he could once more try his hand at the old art of wild cattle hunting. It had been many years since he had tangled with a wild bullock—but he had one bit of assurance and that was that his horse was a good cow pony and knew his share of the responsibilities of the job ahead.

At the end of the second week Kuakini was sure that the habits of the herd were clear to him so he called Honokaa rancher Jack Ramos, to whom the animals belonged, and told him about the animals. Jack was well aware of the fact that many of his herd had disappeared into the forest and gone wild. He was eager to get them out also. A date was arranged and agreed upon and Jack and his men met Kuakini early one morning and started out after the animals. They entered the forest against the wind so as not be detected by the cattle. Deep in the forest they surrounded the herd and moved in very slowly and quietly so as not to spook the cattle. They moved the herd very slowly to the upper boundary of the forest into the clearing and toward a corral where the animals were to be trucked away. Everything went very smoothly until the animals got into the corral. The instinct of the wild immediately came forward. The herd was restless and suspicious. A young bull who had never known confinement was especially restless and frightened by the strange creatures and things he saw. He stomped the ground savagely, his eyes flashing white with fear, his nostrils expanding and contracting, as he blew heavily. Round and round the corral he went. Suddenly with the ease and grace of a fawn he cleared the corral fence and headed back into the thick forest. It was disappointing to lose him but Kuakini was determined to get him back. The men rounded up a small herd of tame cattle and drove them into the forest to mingle with the wild cattle. They drove them toward the corral once more. The young bull was among them. Having the tame cattle in the corral with the wild animals helped to keep the wild cattle quiet long enough to get them on to the trucks. Thirty-five head were taken from the forest and driven off to market.

The old paniolo was pleased and satisfied! He could still hunt wild cattle!

“Well, hui hou! I gotta big job today—gotta separate pipi for market,” Kuakini said as he donned his stetson, gestured with his famous salute, and rode off on his favorite horse, “Sparkling,” headed for the green pastures of Kamoku.

Travellers All

Christians know that they are always in the presence and under the care of God the Father, and that whatever we do or wherever we go, we are in His hands. We also know that if we walk carelessly, He does not save us; that if a driver takes a chance, He does not save us; if the builder of a ship or of a plane makes mistakes in design or workmanship, He does not save us. Therefore, when we pray for travelers, we should pray that all workmen who build ships, automobiles, railroads, and planes should build with responsibility; that all who pilot our means of travel should drive with responsibility; and that we do not tempt God to rescue us from the results of our carelessness.—Taddled from The Tennessee Churchman.

Friendly Friday Guild of the Women Of St. Andrew's Cathedral

The Friendly Friday Guild was started in 1918 and has been meeting regularly ever since. It also joins in the United Churchwomen, World Community Day, World Day of Prayer and May Fellowship Day observances. We are faithful attendants of the Lenten Sewing meetings for the Diocese. We consider ourselves ecumenical, diocesan and devout members of St. Andrew's Cathedral.

Founder of the Guild was Mrs. Arthur Withington, when my mother, Mrs. von Holt, was president of the Women of St. Andrew. Mrs. Withington was a talented author, a devout Churchwoman, and an inspiration to all who knew her. She wrote “The Golden Cloak,” “Hawaiian Tapestry” and other books on Hawaii. She and Mrs. von Holt built up the Guild into a real factor in the life of the Cathedral. Mrs. Withington was chairman for 35 years, and I have tried to take her place for almost twelve years.

The Guild is very informal, having no constitution, no by-laws, no dues. Our main work is sewing, and our main purpose is to be friendly. We keep in touch with those who are ill or in trouble. More chatting than sewing is the order of the day at our meetings. New members are most welcome. We meet each Friday from ten to one o'clock in the von Holt Room, having an interlude for lunch, where we bring our own sandwiches, etc.

—Mary von Holt White (Mrs. Robert)
