A CHRONICLE REPORT...

ANGLICAN MASS IN VATICAN CITY

By Rev. H.N. Conley,
Dean of St. Andrew's Cathedral

ROME ... An event of major religious significance has just taken place here and I was privileged to be a part of it. To quote an AP release, "A group of 40 U.S. Episcopal and Canadian Anglican clergymen said Mass here yesterday in the first Protestant Eucharist celebration ever held in the Vatican City, the Vatican announced."

"The 30 U.S. and 10 Canadian clergymen said Mass in the Church of San Stefano degli Abissini in the Vatican gardens, right in back of St. Peter's Basilica. They were guests of Pope Paul VI who meant it as a gesture of reconciliation toward Christian Unity during this Holy Year."

The concelebration in the 9th century church where Charlemagne prayed was the climax of an extraordinary week. It began with an invitation from Pope Paul VI to all the Episcopal Deans to a conference at the Vatican on Anglican-Roman relationships and Christian Unity. The invitation was the result of an earlier visit between Dr. Arthur Ramsey, retired Archbishop of Canterbury, and Pope Paul.

The official host for the informal discussions was the Most Rev. William Baum, RC Archbishop of Washington, D.C. Among those Cardinals participating were Cardinal Willebrands of the Secretariat to Promote Christian Unity, Cardinal Knox of the Congregation for Divine Worship, Cardinal Pignedoli (a prime candidate to succeed to the Papacy) of the Secretariat for Non-Christian Religions. The full clerical staff of each Cardinal was present. Of great assistance also were the Graymoor Friars.

The fastest growing mission in the Pacific is rising on Nimitz Beach, Guam. The foundations and concrete floors are poured, the roof half covered, and the walls going up at St. Andrew's Guam. When completed the building will serve the south central part of Guam as a church, a community activity center, and a day care center.

The Rev. Jack Tabili, vicar of St. Andrew's, is shown here with the Rev. John Moore and the Rev. Jordon Peck inspecting the progress of the new building.

St. Andrew's mission to Guam's Philippine community is sponsored by St. John the Divine and many church groups both here in Hawaii and on the mainland.

The Rev. Lincoln P. Eng, rector of St. Bartholomew's Church, Veaverton, Oregon and national EAST chairman, summed up the conference when he said, "This conference has given us an opportunity to look at ourselves — Chinese, Japanese, Koreans, Filipinos — and to see our oneness in the Lord. It has enabled us to see this oneness, our wholeness, given to us by the Lord, by virtue of which we can minister to and with each other."

EAST MEETS

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — The second annual conference of the year-old national EAST was held at St. Paul's Cathedral and the Los Angeles Hilton Hotel April 3-5.

EAST, an acronym for "Episcopal Asiamerica Strategies Taskforce," is in its second year of life following a first organizational meeting in San Francisco in February, 1974. A creature of the 1973 Louisville General Convention, it is a response to the growing concern of the Episcopal Church for the need to minister to the rapidly growing Asian American population in our communities.

This growth is seen as a result of the natural population growth of Asian Americans already here, and as a result of the massive in-migration of Asians to our urban areas. The latter has been prompted in large part by relaxation of immigration laws.

Following an opening Eucharist in the Cathedral at which The Rt. Rev. Robert C. Rusack, Bishop of Los Angeles, was celebrant, nearly 150 delegates dealt with the conference question: "What is Asian Ministry?"

They worked in panel and plenary sessions and small discussion groups with focus points presented by civic and ecumenical leaders from the Los Angeles Asian American community. The panelists were led by conference moderator, The Rev. Kay Kokubun, a Disciples minister, Project Supervisor of the Asian Unit, Los Angeles County Department of Community Services.

Debates reached the conclusion that Asian ministry is not one but many ministries. It must take into account separate traditions, cultures, backgrounds and languages of Asian peoples as well as the very different needs of first, second, third and even fourth generation Asians now living in America.

A large portion of the conference work dealt with the social, physical and spiritual needs of Asians, many of whom are recent immigrants. It must be a ministry, said the group, by Asians to Asians, by Asians to anyone, by anyone to Asians, and about Asians to anyone.

HONOLULU ... Vicky Liu, the wife of the Rector of St. Elizabeth's, attended the E.A.S.T. Conference as an interested member of the parish. She offers this reflection on the meeting.

"The meaning of Asian-American ministry has to be expressed in the total commitments of Worship and Evangelism, Leadership of Participation in the Church and Community, Youth Growth of Individual Identity from both Asian and European heritages and Equal Access to all Socio-Economic Opportunities. Any single emphasis of these commitments of the Asian-American Ministry will be ineffective and unbalanced in conveying Christ's Gospel to the Asian-Americans.

"Two critical guidelines must be considered for the development of ministry among the Asian-Americans. First, the technical emphasis of the ethnic languages in worship and the practice of ethnic values has to be sensitive and realistic to the continuing growth of an individual's heritage and freedom of self-determination. Second, raising of awareness of the ethnic heritages in America is not an isolated educational process to the special ethnic groups or any special socio-religious division, but it is a learning process for genuine appreciation of different heritages by all people of multiple ethnic origins in this American society."

NON-PROFIT HOUSING NATIONAL CHURCH GROUPS SAY GOVERNMENT FAILS TO GIVE SUPPORT

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Frustrated but still willing to try seemed to be the general reaction of the leaders in religiously sponsored, non-profit housing who gathered the last week in April to discuss the ramifications of the new Housing and Urban Development Act which went into effect this January.

The National Housing Consultation brought together women and men from across the country to exchange housing models, identify new strategies, and reaffirm a common commitment to decent housing for all Americans.

The consultation was sponsored by the Joint Strategy and Action Committee (JSAC) Housing Task Force, and the Interreligious Coalition for Housing (ICH), of which the Episcopal Church is a member.

According to John Vanderbeck, president of National Housing Services for National Ministries, American Baptist Churches, the consultation "accomplished what it set out to do — to indicate to the administration and congress that church groups could come out of diversification and produce a unified position." He added, "We're going to keep pressing for decent housing and we'll be back."

The main thrust of the consultation centered on six workshops covering housing for the elderly, land use policies, financing, management, public housing, and meeting the housing promise. Out of these sessions came firm and positive recommendations for future action.

Among the Episcopalians participating in the consultation were Woodrow W. Carter, officer for social welfare of the Executive Council staff; Howard Quander, director of the Community Action and Human Development Commission; Nelson Canals, associate executive secretary of the National Commission on Hispanic Affairs; the Rev. Franklin Turner, executive coordinator for Black Ministries; and Charles Bound, chairman of the Executive Council's Ghetto Loan and Investment Committee.

On April 22, thirty-three religious leaders met with administration officials at the White House to urge greater support of non-profit housing. The delegation was led by the Rt. Rev. Paul Moore, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of New York, and James Christison, executive secretary for National Ministries for the American Baptist Churches.

The group expressed their strong concern over the failure of the government to support non-profit housing fully and suggested the establishment of a council composed of non-profit housing leaders and government officials to promote dialog between sponsors and administration.

Besides Bishop Moore, Episcopalians attending the White House conference included Bishop Richard B. Martin, executive for ministries, Bishop Milton L. Wood, executive for administration, both on the national Church Center staff in New York City, and the Rev. John Stevens, interim director of JSAC, New York City.

QUEEN EMMA SQUARE STUDY ANNOUNCED

Plans for a master study of Queen Emma Square, looking toward the dual purpose of improving existing facilities and generating additional income for Church programs, were announced on March 21 by Bishop E. Lani Hanchett.

Institutions of the Church which will participate in the Master Plan project include the Diocese of Hawaii, St. Andrew's Cathedral, St. Andrew's Priory and St. Peter's Church.

Bishop Hanchett emphasized that a high priority will be placed on esthetic and historic considerations and full acceptance by the Church and community of any development plans resulting from the study. The study, financed by a special legacy to the Bishop, is expected to take around six months to complete. There will be no obligation of Diocesan funds.

In an announcement made public at a press Conference held in St. Andrew's Cathedral Bishop Hanchett stated:

A MESSAGE FROM BISHOP HANCHETT

"As the Bishop of Hawaii I am very pleased to announce that an important decision has been made regarding Church property at Queen Emma Square. It is fairly common knowledge that the Board of Directors for years has been studying various plans for development of property to provide additional income to support the Church's programs. It is to this subject that I address myself at this interview.

"My personal concern is that whatever plan we may develop, it must be aesthetically compatible with St. Andrew's Cathedral and the surrounding community. I am also fully aware of the requirements laid upon us by the fact that the Cathedral has been designated a historical site and that we are a part of the Capitol Corridor. Whatever we do, I will insist that St. Andrew's Cathedral be accentuated and that the setting surrounding it be more aesthetically compatible than the conglomeration of buildings and hodgepodge open space we have at present.

"Beyond this, I feel it important to provide more attractive and more efficient structures to better meet the needs of those of us who occupy the Square. Most of the buildings are old and deteriorating and expensive to maintain.

"The Real Estate Committee of the Board of Directors has been advocating for some time that a master plan for the development of Church property at Queen Emma Square be prepared. The Committee has not been able to move ahead with any kind of a study because the Diocese does not have the funds to underwrite such a program.

"With money available to the Bishop for his discretionary use, it is now possible to proceed with a feasibility study. No diocesan funds are involved. It is my hope that a master plan will be developed which is acceptable not only to the institutions at Queen Emma Square, but to the public as well."

Other conference speakers were The Rt. Rev. William J. Gordon, former Bishop of Alaska and presently a consultant at "815" for "New Patterns of Ministry" and also the director of TEAM ("Teach Each A Ministry"); The Rt. Rev. C. Kilmer Myers, Bishop of California; and The Rev. Dr. Roy Sano (Methodist), Chaplain and Assistant Professor of Religion, Mills College, Oakland, and Director of the Asian Center for Theology and Strategies.

A presentation of films and slides was highlighted by a premiere showing by Mr. Lew Ayres, in person, of his new color documentary film, Altars of the World: the Religions of Man.

The main social event of the conference was a Friday night banquet at the Golden Palace Restaurant in Chinatown. Entertainment included a Japanese classical dance performed by the Azuma School of Classical Dance at St. Mary's Church, Los Angeles; Filipino highland dances from the Mountain Province and Baguio done by Filipino Episcopalians from the Los Angeles area; and a Polynesian serenade by The Rev. Dr. Sione Halapua, Assistant at St. Mark's Church, Altadena.

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The Episcopal Church's world relief office has received a total of $569,870.45 designated for world hunger during the first three months of 1975.

Together with $87,363.36 contributed for hunger relief in December, 1974, the Presiding Bishop's Fund for World Relief has received $657,233.81 since Presiding Bishop John M. Allin issued a special appeal for contributions in December.

Individual contributions, no matter how small, are the children's main hope for survival. A contribution of $1.00, the average cost of a hamburger, french fries and soda, can buy a year's supply of multi-vitamins for a child in a crisis country. $15 can bring supplementary food and health services to five children for a month.

SE ASIA REFUGEES . . . THE CHURCH RESPONDS

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The Rt. Rev. John M. Allin, Presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church, today urged the 3,000,000 members of this Church to "share our lives and resources" to meet the needs of refugees from Southeast Asia.

"Again as in other moments of tragedy and despair, the Church is called upon to act in a caring and reconciling role at a time when refugees from a devastated land arrive to join us in our communities," Bishop Allin said.

The major role assigned by the Government to voluntary agencies is resettlement of refugees. Families of local congregations are being asked to "sponsor" a refugee, agreeing to help him and his family find housing and employment, and offering to assist in the difficult transition from Indo-Chinese to American culture.

On April 27, nine national volunteer agencies were assigned this vital task, including Church World Service, the U.S. Catholic Council, and the Lutheran Council in the U.S.A. Nineteen denominations affiliated with CWS are now actively seeking local sponsorship of refugees.

The national Episcopal Church

Center is handling such assignments through Mrs. Renford (Iris) Brown (212/867-8400), on behalf of the Presiding Bishop's Fund for World Relief. Mrs. Brown was also active for the Episcopal Church at the

The Rt. Rev. George M. Murray of the Diocese of the Central Gulf Coast, in which Eglin Field Air Force Base is located, has issued a call to all clergy and lay people to offer assistance to the refugees now housed on the base.

In addition to the refugees who have fled Vietnam, thousands of displaced Cambodians are in Thailand resettlement.

The World Council of Churches has issued an emergency appeal for $1,000,000 for humanitarian work in all of Indochina.

The Board of the Presiding Bishop's Fund, meeting in New York this week, approved a further emergency allocation of $20,000 to the Fund for Reconciliation and Reconstruction, a WCC agency active in north Indochina, in addition to the $60,000 already allocated by the Fund.

Another grant of $15,000 was recently made to the Vietnam Christian Service, a WCC agency at work in South Vietnam.

STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDING BISHOP

"Again as in other moments of tragedy and despair, the Church is called upon to act in a caring and reconciling role at a time when refugees from a devastated land arrive to join us in our communities. If we are to perform an effective ministry, we shall need to know as much as we can about ways in which we may share our lives and resources in meeting the needs of the displaced human beings: prayer, food, shelter, clothing and all the other requirements of the dispossessed. Through these efforts we will have the experience of renewing our faith and the opportunity of recalling Christ's priorities.

It is now estimated that more than 125,000 Indo-Chinese refugees are either in Guam or en route to the three military bases which are being used for temporary housing.

The Episcopal Dioceses of Los Angeles, Arkansas, and Central Gulf Coast are already actively aiding sultant in this crisis for the Diocese of Los Angeles.

The Rt. Rev. Robert Rusack of the Diocese of Los Angeles has asked his parishioners "to be able to look back on its participation in ministry to these refugees with the same degree of pride we have in our efforts on behalf of Cuban and Dutch Indonesian refugees."

ABS A MINISTRY OF THE WORD TO REFUGEES

A Vietnam story that's going largely unnoticed . . . In the last days before the collapse of South Vietnam, the American Bible Society was hard at work among the refugees passing out Scripture Selections for the churches' ministry to these homeless and often hopeless victims of 40 years of war. The Selections are in Vietnamese, and are titled "Consolation" (2 Cor. 1.3-12), "Love" (1 John 4.7-12), and "Hope" (Psalm 121). The Society also printed 100,000 copies of the Gospel of John.

The American Bible Society is still at its job but now the scene changes to Guam, the Philippines, Wake Island, and other refugee centers around the world.

In response to requests from Christian clergy and laypeople among the refugees, the Society is printing 50,000 copies each of two Scripture Selections in Vietnamese on the theme of "hope." The first contains Psalms 27 and 55 and 2 Corinthians 2.1-13. The second is the 14th chapter of the Gospel of John. In addition, the United Bible Societies' production center in Hong Kong is rushing a printing of 10,000 Vietnamese New Testaments, 20,000 copies of a Scripture Portion containing the life and teachings of Jesus, and 50,000 Scripture Selections on the theme of "consolation."

LOCAL CONCERN FOR REFUGEES EAST

HONOLULU . . . A Statement of Concern for Refugees was approved by the Program Committee of the Episcopal Church in Hawaii at its May meeting.

The Statement reads, in part, "We feel that it is the Church's responsibility to provide the moral leadership to a society struggling to cope with complex and conflicting issues.

"To provide this leadership we urge:

1. The Christian and non-Christian churches in Hawaii, especially the Episcopal Church of which we are members, to stand among those who welcome the Vietnam refugees.
2. Individual church members be willing to make personal sacrifices to assist the refugees in starting a new, safe, and productive life.
3. Each church in Hawaii to 'adopt' a refugee family and assist it in making a smooth transition to life in Hawaii."

The Statement was drafted by the Hawaii Episcopal Asiamerica Strategies Task-Force (EAST) and presented at St. Luke's on May 4, 1975.

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Leon Joseph Cardinal Suenens, the Archbishop of Malines-Brussels, Belgium, came to the Episcopal Church Center for a press reception.

Cardinal Suenens, who had just concluded a nationwide tour, spoke about the charismatic renewal movement within the Roman Catholic Church as well as the influence of the so-called "pentecostals" inside Protestant denominations.

The major topic of interest was Cardinal Suenens' latest book, A NEW PENTECOST? Published by the Seabury Press on March 10, it provides an in-depth view of charismatic renewal past and present, and the reporters asked Cardinal Suenens to clarify points within the book, such as the tradition of "speaking in tongues," and the issue of women priests.

He said that the status of women is being "elevated" by the charismatic renewal, by providing opportunity for a "plurality of ministries," but he said that it is too early to predict whether or not these ministries will include the ordained ministries.

After a dinner with the Rt. Rev. John M. Allin, Presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church on March 19, Cardinal Suenens returned to Belgium to being planning for the world conference on charismatic renewal scheduled for Rome later this year.

A NEW PENTECOST? is available in cloth for $7.95 from the Seabury Bookstore (815 Second Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10017) or other related bookstores.

St. Luke's had another successful two-day bazaar Palm Sunday weekend adding nearly $4000 to their kitty. It's been two years since I've had the pleasure of eating Kim Chee and Taegu with St. Luke's and that's about the only disadvantage I've found so far in moving to Maui. Why don't you drive up to Nuuanu some Sunday this summer and worship with them . . . a great experience that doesn't need food to make it memorable.
